

TRANSFER PROCEDURES

When you board a Metro Connection bus, ask the operator for a Metro transfer. After you pay your full fare, the operator will give you a magnetically encoded transfer "ticket". When you arrive at the Metro station, go directly to the faregates, put your transfer ticket into the red slot, and walk through the turnstiles.

You will get a magnetically encoded transfer ticket during rush hours only (6:00 - 9:30 a.m. and 3:00 - 6:30 p.m.). During mid-day, you will be issued a paper transfer which must be presented directly to the station attendant.

If you want to continue your trip on another bus after leaving the Metro, you must press a green button marked "transfer" on the faregates as you enter, and BEFORE inserting your ticket. Then, as you leave the Metro station after your ride, your transfer ticket (check) will again be returned by the exit faregate. Take it with you and hand it to the bus operator as you board.

Magnetically encoded transfer tickets will not be issued to passengers transferring from one bus to another. Regular paper transfers will be used for this purpose.

“What is Metro Connection service?”

The Metro Connection is the key to Baltimore’s new, integrated mass transit system. Bus routes have been changed to take you to Metro stations. From there, you may continue your trip on the rail system, transferring to another bus if necessary.

“How do I use this timetable?”

Decide when you want to arrive. Look at the times listed under your destination and find the time that best suits your needs. Then look to the left and see what time you should catch that bus.

“What time will the bus arrive?”

A number of timepoints are shown on the map by a ☼. To know the time a bus will arrive at your stop, first determine where your stop is in relation to the timepoint shown on the map and the corresponding time shown on the schedule. If your stop is after a timepoint, add travel time; if your stop is located before the nearest timepoint, subtract travel time.

“Where do I transfer?”

At certain intersections shown on the map, you will see small squares with a number or letter and number, such as 44 or M-1, to show where you can transfer. You may transfer to continue a trip in the same general direction. Transfers cannot be used for round trips.
